

NAZIS MAKE CLAIMS OF NEW VICTORIES AGAINST SOVIETS

Claim Destruction of Four Russian Warships and Nine Transports

DEFEAT ATTACKS

Germans Also Claim Artillery Severely Damaged Soviet Cruiser

BERLIN, Sept. 22.—(INS)—Sensational new German victories, including destruction of four Russian warships and nine transport vessels and defeat of Red army counter-attacks on the central front, were announced officially in Berlin today.

A communique stated German planes yesterday between the Black sea port of Odessa and the Russian naval base at Sevastopol sank one Soviet cruiser, two destroyers and one anti-aircraft vessel in addition to nine transports.

Far to the north, it was announced, German land artillery severely damaged, with direct hits a Soviet cruiser attached to a naval squadron from Kronstadt in the Gulf of Finland which attempted to shell German positions and interfere with land operations along the coast.

The statement said a Soviet destroyer and some smaller Russian war vessels participated in this attack.

On land, the communique said, German forces repulsed Soviet counter-attacks on the central front which were launched for the purpose of relieving German pressure on Kiev.

The counter-attacking Red Army units were declared to have suffered heavy losses.

According to the German communique one Nazi division alone destroyed numerous tanks, including several 52-ton monsters.

On another sector of the front, it was stated, German anti-aircraft batteries destroyed 20 Soviet tanks including six 52-ton machines, two 42-ton tanks and 10 battle wagons weighing 32 tons.

BERLIN, Sept. 22.—(INS)—Capture of strategic Oesel Island in the Baltic and a rapid push across the Ukraine to the Sea of Azov which isolated the Crimea were claimed by the German High Command today.

Occupation of Aensburg, capital of Oesel Island, was announced, and military authorities said a new Nazi offensive in the Southeastern Ukraine—launched after the capture of Kiev—was driving against the vast Russian Caucasian oil fields.

East of Kiev, it was claimed, the greater part of four trapped Russian armies was "wiped out" by German legions which captured more than 150,000 prisoners, 151 tanks, 602 field guns and which repulsed desperate Soviet efforts to break through the encircling "iron ring."

The German news agency DNB quoted Hungarian reports that Soviet Marshal Semyon Budenny has been relieved of command of the Russian southern armies and that Marshal Semyon Timoshenko has temporarily assumed control over these forces.

A DNB dispatch from Kiev claimed "tens of thousands of civilians in Kiev have been imperilled by deliberate city-wide devastations" attributed to Soviet forces carrying out Premier Josef Stalin's "scorched earth" program.

U. S. BUILT PLANES PATROLLING SEAS

Famed "Catalinas" Are Playing Key Role in Keeping Shipping Lanes Open

ARE AIDING THE BRITISH

By Frank Courtney
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Sept. 22.—(INS)—Covering the water front from the Arabian Sea to well south of the equator, and from China Seas nearly to Africa, are squadrons of American-built "Catalinas" which have been arriving across the Pacific from the United States in a steady flow for the past few months.

These aircraft operate from bases in Malay and Ceylon, and since their arrival in the Far East their patrol flights have covered a distance equal to about six flights round the world, according to the British Air Ministry News Service.

They keep a ceaseless watch for enemy raiders and submarines, and the deterrent effect of their presence in these waters may be gauged by a recent decline in German activity in this theatre of the war.

These "Catalina" pilots, whose work is helping to keep open the shipping lanes of the British Empire, have been described as "the infantry of the air," and certainly, they are maids of all work.

Reconnaissance is inevitably an unspectacular and monotonous job, but at times, they have been called upon to escort convoys, to act as long range bombers, to undertake routine patrols and to do anti-submarine reconnaissance. In one patrol in the Indian Ocean a plane was patrolling for 18½ hours before returning to its base.

Operating to islands scattered over the Indian Ocean, is a squadron based in Ceylon. They have bases in drowsy little islands and blue lagoons where crews sometimes spend as long as a fortnight waiting for a signal directing them to the relief of a ship in distress somewhere in their area.

Wedding Occurs Saturday In St. Ann's R. C. Church

For her marriage to Mr. Armond Jerome, of 274 McKinley street, Miss Mary Pica, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pica, 319 Grant avenue, chose a gown of white satin and lace, her attendants being gowned in a variety of shades of satin. The marriage ceremony occurred at three o'clock, Saturday afternoon, in St. Ann's R. C. Church, the Rev. Father Peter Pinci officiating. Mr. Jerome, the groom, is the son of Mrs. Rosie Jerome. Mr. Pica gave his daughter in marriage.

The bridal march, and other selections, were played by organist, Miss Frances Tamburella, she likewise providing accompaniment for Mr. Joseph Galzerano, Jefferson avenue, as he sang "The Rosary."

Miss Desolina Pica, a sister of the bride, served as maid of honor, she being gowned in American beauty shade; and Miss Mary Dikenzon, Lincoln avenue, and Miss Eva Capecci, Jefferson avenue, cousin of the bride, who served as bridesmaids, wore baby blue and dusty rose, respectively.

The bridal gown of satin, had an attractive yoke and collar of lace, the neckline being V-shape. Sleeves were three-quarter length, and the full skirt ended in a long train. Her veil of net, bordered with lace, was attached to a beaded tiara. White satin slippers were worn, and she carried an arm bouquet of mixed white flowers.

The maid of honor and two bridesmaids had gowns patterned alike. Lace yokes topped the satin creations, and the gowns had short trains. The trio wore satin slippers and felt picture hats to match the gowns; the hats having velvet streamers in raisin color. Each carried an arm bouquet of mixed flowers. The little flower girl, Rose Marie Pica, New Brook street, a niece of the bride, was attired similarly to the bride. Her long gown was of white satin, and her crown of satin was trimmed with a bow at the back. Her arm bouquet, like that of the bride, was composed of mixed white flowers.

Mr. Alfred Gattelli, 274 McKinley street, was best man for his cousin; and the usher was Mr. Riggie Jerome, a brother of the groom.

Sons of Italy hail was the scene of a reception at seven o'clock, Saturday evening. Later Mr. and Mrs. Jerome left for a week's journey to Washington, D. C. The bride's ensemble for the journey consisted of a three-piece suit of brown tweed, hat of brown felt, brown accessories, and corsage of orchids. The residence of the newlyweds will be No. 9 Lincoln avenue.

Soviets Admit Loss of Kiev

Moscow, Sept. 22.—Loss of Kiev was conceded by the Soviet High Command today but a smashing Russian victory was claimed in an eight-day battle on the central front, where Red Army forces were credited with recapturing a vast fortified zone including 32 villages.

As the Russo-German war entered its fourth month, a midnight military bulletin said Kiev was abandoned by Soviet forces after one of the bloodiest battles in history. Kiev is Russia's third largest city. Dispatches from the southern front said Marshal Budenny's armies retreated in orderly manner from Kiev and now are locked in savage rearguard battles with German forces east of the city.

On the central front, Soviet advisers stated, Marshal Timoshenko's forces are continuing to "invest Smolensk." Far to the north, it was stated, Marshal Voroshilov's troops are "holding the initiative on many sectors of the Leningrad front."

Predicts Wage Control Will Be Left Out of Bill

Washington, Sept. 22.—Rep. Steagall, D. Ala., chairman of the House Banking and Currency Committee, today predicted that no wage control provision will be written into the pending price-fixing bill.

In his first public statement on the matter, given in an interview, the chairman took strong issue with Bernard Baruch, economic czar of the last war, who urged a far-reaching bill to set ceilings on all prices, rents and wages.

While terming the proposal to fix wages "impossible," Steagall said that his committee faces two bitter showdown fights before the bill can be reported out. These are over whether price control should be administered by one man or by a board, and whether agricultural prices should be fixed at parity or at 10 per cent above parity.

"Wage ceilings just can't be imposed without taking away all Labor's rights to negotiate and neither Congress nor the Courts would let us do that even if we wanted to," the representative declared.

Gulf Coast Residents Prepare for Tropical Storm

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 22.—(INS)—Gulf coast residents from Sabine, Texas, to Carabelle, Fla., girded themselves today for the onslaught of an approaching tropical storm of hurricane or near-hurricane force.

The storm center was described in a weather bureau advisory as about 160 miles south of Port Eads, La., and moving north toward the coast at approximately 10 miles an hour.

Already, however, said the weather bureau, tides were "very high" along the Louisiana coast from Port Eads to the vicinity of New Orleans, and winds of gale force were whipping a wide area of the gulf in the north central and northwest portions.

Every precaution was taken to advise coast residents of their danger. Coastguard planes last night flew over the area dropping messages to warn the threatened districts, and in some instances loud speakers from low-flying planes shrieked instructions for the evacuation of imperilled sections.

Coastguard headquarters reported at least 200 persons had been removed from areas directly in the indicated path of the big blow.

In New Orleans, police mobilized trucks and automobiles and called for volunteer rescue workers to be ready for relief work at any point where assistance might be needed on the Louisiana-Mississippi coasts.

The American Red Cross, meanwhile, also marshalled its forces for rescue work. National Red Cross headquarters in Washington last night sent an "alert" order to units in Louisiana parishes instructing them to prepare for emergency evacuations ahead of the storm, and to make ready for the feeding and housing of any persons made homeless.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Price-Control Muddle

Washington, Sept. 20. THERE is some prospect that if and when the House passes the price-control bill, it will do so with an amendment providing either that the Price Administrator to be named by the President must be confirmed by the Senate or that a board instead of an individual shall administer the law. This, of course, is aimed at Mr. Leon Henderson, who already has been functioning as Price Administrator, but has no legal status and would have to be renamed under the law.

THE situation is unfortunate. Every informed person concedes the necessity of effective price control as the one means of averting disastrous inflation. Mr. Roosevelt has warned of this; his Secretary of the Treasury has warned of it; the Federal Reserve head, Mr. Eccles, has warned of it. In fact, no other danger has been so widely warned against by so many people—some of whom know what they are talking about but many of whom do not.

ACTING to avoid this danger, the President has made two mistakes. First, in advance of the act he has named as administrator a man of reputed radical tendencies in whom there is little public confidence and about whose soundness there is considerable suspicion. Second, he has endorsed a bill under which effective price control not only cannot be achieved but which will increase the cost of living rather than lessen it. This and other defects were brought out on Friday in a trenchant criticism by Mr. B. M. Baruch, made all the more devastating by its moderation and restraint.

—O—

MR. BARUCH presented the vital need for complete industrial mobilization.

BRISTOL MAN SERIOUS AFTER STABBING AFFAIR

"Socks" Seneca is in Nazareth Hospital, Phila., Where His Condition is Watched

PLAYED FOOTBALL HERE

A well known Bristol athlete is in a serious condition in the Nazareth Hospital, Philadelphia, where Salvatore "Socks" Seneca, 344 Washington street, is a patient after being stabbed several times in the region of the heart and lungs.

Seneca's condition, according to his wife, remains serious due to the possibility of infection and hemorrhage. He will not be considered out of danger for at least three days, Mrs. Seneca states.

Mrs. Seneca says that her husband who is employed in a Philadelphia factory, remained in Philadelphia Saturday afternoon to look for a residence which would be near his place of employment. He dropped in at the Holme A. A. club house and while playing darts there was summoned by some friends to come to another club. It was at the latter place that the altercation took place and Mrs. Seneca states that the stabbing and cutting was done by some colored men, who have not been apprehended by the police.

Seneca was quite a football player here and was one of the best football prospects developed here. He formerly played and coached the St. Ann's team and at one time had a tryout with the Philadelphia Eagles. He played with several semi-pro teams in Philadelphia and vicinity. He is married and the father of two children.

Miss Rose Ponzio Becomes Bride of Angelo Lapergola

Given in marriage by her father, Miss Rose Ponzio, 615 Cedar street, yesterday morning became the bride of Mr. Angelo Lapergola, son of Mrs. Angeline Lapergola, 321 Grant avenue. The marriage of Miss Ponzio, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Ponzio, to Mr. Lapergola, was solemnized at 11 o'clock mass in St. Ann's Church, by the Rev. Father Peter Pinci. The church choir, which sang the mass selections, was accompanied by organist, Miss Frances Tamburella.

Miss Angeline Stellato, Penn street, served as maid of honor; with Mrs. Alfred Scansella, Lincoln avenue, and Miss Josephine Cimino, Philadelphia, attending the bride as bridesmaids. The best man was Mr. Alfred Scansella, and ushers included Mr. Peter Ponzio, brother of the bride; and Mr. Albert Barbetta, Jefferson avenue, a cousin of the bride.

The bride was attractively gowned in white silk bengaline, with an overall floral design in ivory brocade velvet. The planted bodice formed a draped neckline; sleeves were long, ending in points over the hands; and the full skirt ended in a long train. Sandals were of white doe-skin; and the bridal veil of silk net had a silk net head-dress arranged heart-shaped, with trim of orange blossoms. Her arm bouquet included roses and orchids.

The dusty rose silk bengaline gowns of the three young women attendants, were fashioned like that of the bride, with the exception that sleeves and trains were short. Accessories were of duobonnet, the off-the-face style of velvet hats having broad brims. Duobonnet slippers were of suede; and each maid carried an arm bouquet of pink roses.

The wedding breakfast following the ceremony was served at the home of the bride's parents; and dinner at 3.30 was arranged at the Club Condado, Trenton, N. J. The evening reception was held in Trades Hall. For a week's honeymoon trip Mrs. Lapergola wore a dark green silk dress, an off-the-face felt hat of green, red fox Schubby, and corsage of orchids. The newlyweds will reside with the groom's mother.

The costumes of the three young women attendants were made of silk bengaline. The maid of honor wore rose tone; Miss Cutchinal chose orchid; and Miss Arcolesse selected cornflower blue. The bodices of the gowns buttoned down the front, sleeves were three-quarter style; and the full skirts had short trains. Each maid wore a tiara matching her gown, and slippers of all were of silver tone. The attendants carried bouquets of yellow tea roses.

Leaving for a week's honeymoon journey, the former Miss Manze wore a black velvet dress, black velvet hat and black accessories. Her corsage was of gardenias. The bride and groom will reside with the former's father.

Everyone who has volunteered in this service and any others who are interested are requested to be present this evening.

COLORED MEN, PANIC-STRICKEN, FALL IN RIVER AFTER CRASH

Then Return to Scene of Accident at Edgely; Driver is Arrested

NO DRIVER'S LICENSE

Churchville Man Injured In Accident at West Bristol, Sunday

A colored man, operating a borrowed automobile, minus a driver's license, was taken into custody following a crash above Edgely, early yesterday morning, after he and a companion, becoming panic-stricken, commenced wading in the Delaware River, after they realized their plight.

The one arrested is Clarence Miller, West Turner street, Philadelphia, the car which he was driving, owned by James Tracy, a Newark, N. J., resident, being considerably damaged in the accident. The machine driven by Miller hurtled into a field.

The second car involved was that of "Orrie" VanFraassen, Edgely, which was also greatly damaged, according to the investigating officer, Private Newton, of Pennsylvania Motor Police.

The cars, it is stated, were travelling in opposite directions on Bristol Pike, above Edgely, when they side-swiped. Then, according to the officer's report, Miller and his companion, John King, also colored, of Newark, becoming panic-stricken, knowing that Miller had no operator's license, hurried across lots in the direction of the river, and commenced wading.

Then, changing their minds, they returned to the scene of the accident, and according to the officer, secured a ride with a passing soldier, requesting the latter to take them to the police. At Bristol municipal building they were turned over to the Motor Police, the officer lodging a charge of operating a car without a driver's license. According to Private Newton, Miller did carry however, the owner's card. In default of fine and costs, Miller was lodged in the Municipal Building for a time.

None of the three involved were injured.

Upon returning to the scene of the crash after their "ducking", Miller, it is claimed, told VanFraassen a story of being held up by two soldiers. Later he repeated this story to the highway patrolman, but according to the latter, King denied such, saying that the truth should be told. King then informed the officers that he and Miller had borrowed the car, but that Miller, having no driver's license, became afraid.

Joined in Matrimony In St. Ann's Church

The Rev. Father Peter Pinci officiated at the altar of St. Ann's Church, yesterday afternoon at 2.30, when Miss Carmella V. Manze, daughter of Mr. Charles Manze, 226 Penn street, became the wife of Mr. Peter Cutchinal, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Cutchinal, Tullytown.

Music was provided by Mrs. Arthur Angelaccio, Radcliffe street, vocalist, who was accompanied by Miss Frances Tamburella.

Attendants of the bride were inclusive of: Miss Julia Sagolla, Penn street, maid of honor; Miss Frances Cutchinal, Tullytown, sister of the groom; and Miss Gertrude Arcolesse, Wood street, bridesmaids. Serving Mr. Cutchinal as groomsman was Mr. William Abute, Tullytown; another best man being Mr. Anthony Peters, Pond street.

Immediately after the nuptial ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's father; with a reception taking place last evening at Lehigh Furna, near Morrisville.

The costume chosen by the bride for her wedding ceremony was a gown of white satin with trim of lace. A triangular lace insert finished the hemline of the front of the long, full skirt, and the close-fitting neckline was enhanced with a joke and shoulder-caps of lace. The gown featured a lengthy train. Her veil was of tulle, this being held in place by a square-shaped headdress, trimmed with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white flowers.

The costumes of the three young women attendants were made of silk bengaline. The maid of honor wore rose tone; Miss Cutchinal chose orchid; and Miss Arcolesse selected cornflower blue. The bodices of the gowns buttoned down the front, sleeves were three-quarter style; and the full skirts had short trains. Each maid wore a tiara matching her gown, and slippers of all were of silver tone. The attendants carried bouquets of yellow tea roses.

Leaving for a week's honeymoon journey, the former Miss Manze wore a black velvet dress, black velvet hat and black accessories. Her corsage was of gardenias. The bride and groom will reside with the former's father.

FOOD FOR ENGLAND

With so much that is sensational served the public in the news these days, it is easy to overlook an amazing item like the dispatch of food from America to England. The United States government is now spending $2,000,000 daily for these foods. During July and August 250,- 000 tons got across without loss at sea.

The purpose now is to step up the daily purchases. In dairy products monthly shipments of cheese are to be increased from 4,000 tons to 10,000 tons. The current monthly shipment of 600,000 cases of evaporated milk will be jumped up to a winter peak.

In cereals and cereal products the shipments, while slated to be stepped up considerably, will be limited apparently to prepared cereals, soy flour, corn starch (10,000 tons a month) and corn sugar.

In meats the export transactions are impressive and will be expanded in many items. August shipments of lard went to 25,000 tons. Canned pork and other specialties are running around 15,000 tons monthly.
Shipments of eggs in the shell are falling off, but cargoes of frozen eggs are increasing and present monthly shipments of 1,500 tons of dried eggs are expected to climb still more.

In dry beans and peas England is buying from Canada but later is expected to turn to this country for supplies of them.

The United States will not be able to supply the canned salmon needs of the English. There isn't enough salmon. Twenty-five per cent of the Maine sardine pack will go to England, which may help relieve the scarcity of salmon, and so may 3,000,000 cases of California pil-chards.

A prodigious amount of pears and apples are to be sent over. Shipments of raisins and currants will reach 75,000 tons. Prunes are not in heavy demand—the English do not take to them. Canned fruit and jam stock shipments will be huge, including 60,000 tons of jam stock alone. British needs will pull heavily on canned vegetable stocks here. It is estimated that 7,000,000 cases of canned tomatoes will be sent over.

CANDY EATERS

Whatever else may be happening to American customs, Americans are not being weaned from the eating of candy. As the government clamps down on the production of durable goods competing with the defense program for raw materials, wage earners with more money in their pockets are turning to richer foodstuffs.

Consumption of candy had been on the increase before the war. The upward pace has been given new impetus. Not only is the wage earner eating more sweets but candy is one of the fastest selling items in the Army posts all over the country.

In the 1920 decade candy consumption averaged 12 pounds per capita annually. By 1930 per capita consumption had reached 14½ pounds and in 1940 the figure had leaped to 17 pounds. This year the average candy consumption of each American man, woman and child is expected to be between 19 and 20 pounds, which will involve a total expenditure of $350,000,000.

The Census Bureau can always be depended to come through with statistics, sooner or later. It announces that in 1919 more than 57 per cent of women's stockings were cotton; in 1939 only 9 per cent.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

By Courier Staff Member

Review of the news as it appeared in the Bucks County Gazette issue dated at Bristol Dec. 25, 1879. The Gazette, a weekly newspaper published in Bristol, was discontinued following its merger with the Courier.

The Presbyterian holiday festival was the first to occur. Last Friday night it was held in the Presbyterian Church. The exercises consisted of singing by the school, and addresses by Rev. W. D. Roberts, of Brownsburg, and others. One little fellow, when asked what he did at the festival and how he liked it, said "We all laughed and 'slung' cake around, and had lots of fun."

Communication between Bristol and Burlington is not likely to be broken, so long as the ferry boat plows the water so gracefully and butts the ice so bravely as she did on Tuesday.

We regret to state that Gen. Grant could not be prevailed upon to spend his Christmas in Bristol. Previous engagements prevented.

The tow boats Thomas A. Scott and W. H. Aspinwall took a fleet of boats up the river on Tuesday, which probably closes the season.

Harned's mill went into operation on Tuesday morning.

Barclay J. Smith and family have gone further west, and at least accounts reside at San Francisco.

The saw and plaster mills of A. Ellicott Hall, situated on the river road a short distance below Brownsburg, were consumed by fire on Sunday morning, the 14th instant.

Superintendent Woodruff is now on his rounds. Local institutes are announced to be held in some quarters.

Although we think the next annual Teachers' Institute should be held in Bristol, there will be no objection to holding a local institute in addition.

The steam canal boat now constructing for use on the Lehigh and Delaware Canal between Philadelphia and Mauch Chunk is to be entirely of iron, except the cross-beams and deck. It will be 88 feet in length, ten feet, seven inches, in breadth, and will be propelled by a ten horse steam engine with a screw-wheel. It is said that, by a new invention to be applied to the screw, there will be but little agitation to the waters, and the washing out of the banks will consequently be avoided. The boat will have a carrying capacity of 105 tons of coal, drawing five feet of water. If it works satisfactorily a number of them will be constructed.

The viewers appointed to view the place for a county bridge over the Neshaminy Creek, will meet all persons interested on the 19th of January, at 11 o'clock at the place proposed for said bridge.

Five cent barber shops are common in Philadelphia, but it costs ten cents to get shaved in Bristol.

The Gazette carrier boys will wait upon the patrons of this paper on Thursday morning next, with a New Year's Address, especially prepared for their own profit and our subscribers' enjoyment. All who feel inclined can pay to their carrier boy such small change as they deem the faithful performance of his duties through the year to be worth.

The Bristol Relief Society has been reorganized within the last week, and its visiting committee of ladies assigned to their respective districts.
The valuable experience gained during the last winter will no doubt make it more effective in its operation the present season. A depot for clothing at Mr. J. Wesley Wright's store, where all articles can be sent;
money should be handed to Harold Peirce, treasurer.

The rip-rapping of the piers of the railroad bridge at Yardleyville has been completed.

During the recent rise in the Delaware, rafts of lumber were constantly in sight, gliding silently down the stream.

BARRED 7 SEVENS by MARYSE O. RUTLEDGE

CHAPTER THIRTY-SIX

Helm turned to David. "Let me mix you a drink," he said easily, as he walked to the sideboard for a bottle and glasses. "Shortly, I'm taking Jane and her esteemed mother with me to what is sometimes quaintly referred to as 'Parts Unknown'."

David lunged forward. Helm quietly eluded him. "Do be still, Farland!" Kurt growled. "You're a decent enough fellow, but a nuisance. I'm not at all sure what I shall do with you."

The log shack was silent. Then came the throb of a car on the lonely road. Kurt Helm leaned against the table, juggling his thin-bladed hunting knife. The car hummed by, and Helm laughed.

"That was Sweitzer or the Givens
—the rats!" he snapped. "Better take that brandy, Farland. You'll need it." And he pointed to the glass.

So Ed Blagden had failed him.
David thought bitterly. Probably the troopers had been called elsewhere, and didn't believe his cock-eyed story anyway. What a sap he'd been not to take Lawyer Garrison's advice and pack a gun! He said, playing for time, "If Jane's here, I want to see her."

"Asking quite a lot, aren't you, my dear fellow?" Helm's green eyes were mocking, his smile thin. "Maybe I'll let you say goodbye, before she and her mother and I leave."

David's fingers doubled up in his sweating palms. Suppose he rushed Helm and lost out; what chance would Jane have?
If Garrison or Bill were here,
what would they do? They'd stall.
They'd keep their minds clear, and not attack—yet. All his life he'd been too hot-headed. But now—red hair, hasty action, and a fighting chin couldn't help Jane.

He said to Helm, "You murdered Carlie," as a statement and, glass in hand, he wandered toward the door. He noted that it was opened to a crack. The Givens, in their frantic flight, hadn't stopped to close it.

Helm was watching him, but couldn't see the unclashed door, nor feel the air from that almost imperceptible crack. He merely said, "I wouldn't try to make a dash for it,
if I were you."

David sat down near the door.
"You killed Carlie," he repeated.

"So that's your idea!" sneered Helm. "As a matter of fact, she was an adorable woman, but too intelligent. She meant to double-cross me."

Rage drummed in David's ears, but he governed his voice. "What double-cross?"

Kurt lit a cigarette, laying the knife on the table, but lounging near, within reach of it. He went to the fire, kicked a charred log to feeble flame, and returned to his table—and his knife.

"Such questions! What double-cross? Why do I do this or that?"
He leaned forward, idly scribbling on a pad. "It might be for duty—
personal business—"

David remembered Dick Garrison, tracing numbers on a bit of paper. He walked up to Kurt, who was writing sevens with thick bars across them, and under them he was idly writing: Carlie—Carlie—It was similar to the script of the letters Fan Rubley had given David. The latter returned to his chair by the door.

Helm seemed hardly to notice
him. He spoke as if to himself, his voice guttural. "About Carlie—
I needed her for my organizations.
She could have been valuable to me,
married to a big shot like Breaun.
But she fell in love with him, and Breaun was a jealous man—as hot-headed as you." He looked broadly at David. "So—"

Farland moved restlessly. He was sure he heard another car.

Kurt said, "You waste your time, young fellow, if you're expecting the troopers. I saw lights in the Rider house. Assuming it was some meddler, I called up the sergeant, and told him to pay no attention to any false alarms. As a neighbor of the Riders, I completely reassured him."

Bonham-Mannherz Nuptial Ceremony Takes Place Here

The wedding ceremony which united Miss Josephine E. Mannherz, daughter of Mrs. Peter Mannherz, Sr., Edgely, and Mr. Earl H. Bonham, son of Mr. and Mrs. Z. Bonham, of Kingston, occurred in Bristol Presbyterian Church, yesterday afternoon at two o'clock. The clergyman who officiated was the Rev. James R. Galley, pastor of the church.

"Oh Promise Me," and "Perfect Day," were organ selections of Mrs. Marburg D. Weagley, who also played the Lohengrin wedding march as the bridal party entered the edifice. The former Miss Mannherz was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Nicholas Mannherz, Edgely.

The attendant of the bride was Miss Ann Tillger, of Glenside; and serving Mr. Bonham as best man was Mr. Alfred Feltsworth, of Forty Fort.

The bridal gown was a floor-length model of white mousseline de soie, it having short puffed sleeves, sweetheart neck-line, and a short train. Her finger-tip veil was held in place by a coronet of pearls; and she carried an arm spray of white rose buds.

Miss Tillger wore a gown of pale blue faille, with a full, floor-length skirt. She wore a matching turban with face veil; slippers of blue; and carried an arm spray of pale yellow rose-buds.

A reception took place at the home of the bride's mother. The bride is a graduate of Bristol high school; and Mr. Bonham graduated from Forty Fort high school.

Today's Quiet Moment

(By the Rev. James R. Galley, Pastor, Bristol Presbyterian Church)

Our Divine Father, Who in holy love hast created and art sustaining us, Thy children, we invoke Thy gracious blessing upon us this day. Bless Thou us in our going out and our coming in. May our lives be precious in Thy sight. Fill our hearts with love, and our minds with all high and worthy purposes. In our vocations assist us to see the divinity of labor, the expansive power of sympathy, the eternal might of righteousness and integrity. May we do good to all men as we have opportunity. In the Name of Jesus. Amen.

BRISTOL THEATRE

Alice Faye and Tony Martin sing the tune-fest songs you ever heard, as only they know how, in "Sally, Irene and Mary," new star-glorious musical hit which opened yesterday at the Bristol Theatre.

With Fred Allen, of radio's "Town Hall Tonight" fame, they top the great cast of Darryl F. Zanuck's latest 20th Century-Fox success.

Jitterbugs, rug cutters, alligators, swing fans, and just plain lovers of good swingy music and good comedy have a big motion picture moment in store for them, when "Some Like It Hot" opened yesterday at the Bristol Theatre.

GRAND THEATRE

Edward G. Robinson, Marlene Dietrich and George Raft are the co-starring trio of "Manpower," the new picture which opened yesterday at the Grand. With this triple-threat star grouping, an exciting story by ace scripters Jerry Wald and Richard Macaulay, and master direction by Raoul Walsh, director of such recent hits as "High Sierra" and "Strawberry Blonde," "Manpower" stacks up as entertainment-plus.

BOSTON BEANS

A real Boston bean casserole would taste mighty good one of these fresh fall days. With the genuine oven-baked beans that come in tins, you can very quickly prepare one that brings back memories of the genuine long-baked kind Mother used to bake in her own oven. Just heat them in the oven as they are. Or sometimes for variety prepare them other ways. The following recipe will lead you to think of other quick combinations with oven-baked beans.

Boston Bean Casserole with Pine-apple and Link Sausages

Using—

2 medium (18-oz.) cans oven-baked beans, Boston-style.

Turn one can of the beans into casserole. Pour over it—

1 cup canned pineapple chunks, drained.

Pour over this the remaining can of beans and top with—

1 dozen link sausages which have been partially cooked.

Bake in a hot oven (400° F.) 30 minutes or until thoroughly heated and sausages are cooked.

Short ribs of beef are always cooked by braising or stewing,

since they are a not-so-tender cut of meat. That means you use either water or a sauce for moist cooking. Spicy, flavor-rich tomato ketchup makes a grand braising sauce for this inexpensive meat.

Use it as in the following recipe:

Braised Short Ribs of Beef

Have—

3½ pounds short ribs of beef.

Sit meat slightly between bones

for quicker cooking, then brown.

Add—

¼ cup tomato ketchup

¼ cup pure cider vinegar

1½ cups water

2 teaspoons Worcestershire

sauce

1 cup chopped celery.

Simmer in covered pan for 2 hours or until done. Thicken sauce with flour if desired after removing meat from pan. Serve hot with sauce and parsley garnish.

When you feel the first sensation of Autumn chill, you can start to think about serving foods that are spicy—for the fall and winter months give you days when foods

with tangy flavors are in their heyday. Below is a recipe for Mincemeat Cinnamon Muffins to help you start this season with a flourish.

Mince-meat Cinnamon Muffins

Prepare muffin tins by placing in each of 12—

½ teaspoon butter

½ tablespoon brown sugar

1 tablespoon prepared mincemeat.

Sift together three times—

2 cups sifted all-purpose flour

2 teaspoons baking powder

1 teaspoon cinnamon

½ teaspoon salt.

Combine—

1 beaten egg

1 cup milk

4 tablespoons butter, melted

¼ cup brown sugar.

Add this mixture to the dry ingredients all at once and stir quickly until the dry and liquid ingredients are just mixed and have a lumpy appearance. Then quickly pour into muffin tins filling two-thirds full. Bake in a hot oven

(425° F.) 20 minutes.

ALL ARE CORNER ROOMS

The most economical house to build is square, like this one sponsored by the National Homes Foundation. Another virtue of a square house is that all rooms may be corner rooms, which facilitates ventilation. In this example, the living room, extending across the front, has windows on three sides. Abundant closet space, strategically located, is supplemented by attic storage easily reached via a permanent stair opening out of the small bedroom. A garage might be added on the kitchen side with a bedroom over it, reached from a door on the stair landing, and a living porch could be constructed on the other side to balance the building. For complete information about this house, write National Lumber Manufacturers Association, 1337 Connecticut Avenue, Washington, D. C., referring to Design L-V4-N5.

RITZ THEATRE

Technicolor has made the chef take a back seat to the prop man for cooking sequences in a motion picture.

This was discovered when the cameras turned deliciously baked hams, pheasants and roasts into glaring unappetizing dishes for a buffet supper over which Greer Garson presides in "Blossoms in the Dust," starring Miss Garson and Walter Pidgeon, and currently showing at the Ritz Theatre.

Could Cleopatra Drink a Pearl with Stomach Ulcer Pains?

An intriguing story of Cleopatra is the one where an admirer praised the beauty of two of her pearls, whereupon she dropped one into a glass of wine and drank it. She would hardly have done this had she suffered after-eating pains. Those who are distressed with stomach or ulcer pains, indigestion, gas pains, heartburn, burning sensation, bloating and other conditions caused by excess acid should try a 25c box of (Lidsa Tablets). Bonham-Mannherz Nuptial Ceremony Takes Place Here

The wedding ceremony which united Miss Josephine E. Mannherz, daughter of Mrs. Peter Mannherz, Sr., Edgely, and Mr. Earl H. Bonham, son of Mr. and Mrs. Z. Bonham, of Kingston, occurred in Bristol Presbyterian Church, yesterday afternoon at two o'clock. The clergyman who officiated was the Rev. James R. Galley, pastor of the church.

"Oh Promise Me," and "Perfect Day," were organ selections of Mrs. Marburg D. Weagley, who also played the Lohengrin wedding march as the bridal party entered the edifice. The former Miss Mannherz was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Nicholas Mannherz, Edgely.

The attendant of the bride was Miss Ann Tillger, of Glenside; and serving Mr. Bonham as best man was Mr. Alfred Feltsworth, of Forty Fort.

The bridal gown was a floor-length model of white mousseline de soie, it having short puffed sleeves, sweetheart neck-line, and a short train. Her finger-tip veil was held in place by a coronet of pearls; and she carried an arm spray of white rose buds.

Miss Tillger wore a gown of pale blue faille, with a full, floor-length skirt. She wore a matching turban with face veil; slippers of blue; and carried an arm spray of pale yellow rose-buds.

A reception took place at the home of the bride's mother. The bride is a graduate of Bristol high school; and Mr. Bonham graduated from Forty Fort high school.

BENSALEM HOCKEY ASPIRANTS DETERMINED TO KEEP TROPHY CASE IN BENSALEM HIGH SCHOOL

"Keep that championship cup right where it belongs—in the trophy case at Bensalem High School!" That is the yell of Coach Helen Smith and her hockey aspirants at the Owl institution on the Bristol Pike at Cornwells.

Daily some forty to fifty girls are swinging their hickory sticks and shinning the ball up and down the field and learning the art of passing the sphere to one another while others are being taught the fundamentals of guarding and all what belongs to the holding of a championship—such as co-operation and spirit.

Coach Smith and her girls have several records in their minds which they are pointing to: The first is to equal the record set by the 1940 team which went through the season undefeated; the second, to retain the Lower Bucks County championship; and the third, to hand the New Hope team a decisive defeat.

Due to last June's graduation, Coach Smith and her two assistants, Catherine Fitzgerald and Ann Armstrong, have several vacancies to fill from the candidates which may see the transferring of several girls from the positions they played last season and also several new faces in the line-up.

Among those lost by graduation were: Edith Stuletrager who filled in at center-halfback; Dot Doyle and Dot Cairns, fullbacks; Jean Mudie, right halfback; Mildred Smith and Agnes Brummett, left halfbacks; and Jessie Dean, inner.

Coach Smith is due to miss the above players, most of whom have worn girls' hockey uniforms since they were freshmen at the Owletto school. But "Smitty" just passes it over as one of those things and feels confident that the opening positions will be capable filled by one of the many substitutes from last season. As the greatest gap in the team is the defense which the seniors of last season occupied, Coach Smith is closely watching the work of Jean Stuletrager, Grace VanHorn, Edna Meisinger, Alice King and Florence Scott.

The left-overs from the last season also form an excellent calibre of players, including: Eleanor Hughes, who played center-forward; Doris Ely, right inner; Lois Lange, wing; Dolores Runyan, wing; Mildred Vansant, goalie; Regina Silva, inner; Gail King, inner; Doris Gonzalez, halfback; Hazel Lamont, fullback; Doris Cribble, halfback; and Margaret Cook, wing.

Last season's squad had its hardest battle with the New Hope High School which is booked for October 29th this year. New Hope has always fought its best hockey battles against Bensalem and the "Smitty" girls will have to be on their toes from start to finish to get a triumph. But as Miss Smith put it: "We are coming out with victory."

The managers of the team are Adeline Kelenon and Gladys Craig with the assistants being Helen Dwyer and Elaine Miller. The schedule is as follows:

- Oct. 1—Langhorne, away.
- Oct. 8—Richboro, away.
- Oct. 15—Buckingham, home.
- Oct. 22—Newtown, away.
- Oct. 29—New Hope, away.
- Nov. 5—Southampton, home.
- Nov. 6—Doylestown, away.
- Nov. 12—Fallsington, home.

ST. ANN'S GRIDDEES GET LIGHT WORKOUT

The St. Ann's A. A. griddees had a light workout yesterday afternoon on its field at Jefferson Avenue and Garden street. All the boys did was to run about the field and boot the pigskin around to get the feel of things.

But the real workouts will begin tomorrow night when Coach "Bill" Dougherty will hold his first signal drill. Coach Dougherty intends to call practice for every night this week to get the boys in shape for their opening tilt which will be played next Sunday.

The boys have instructed their acting manager to book the Disston Scholastics for their opening number and all efforts are being extended to get this team for next week. St. Ann's have played Disston on their opening date for several seasons and a close score was always the result.

Prospects for a strong Purple and Gold team appear evident. The one thing that appeared lacking for several seasons, backfield material is plentiful. And besides there are at least three candidates who can boot a pigskin. Followers of the St. Ann's team claim that with good kicking, the Saints would have won at least one-half of their games that went on the red side of the ledger.

Some of the candidates who have signified their intention of playing include: Chuck Klein, Hank Killian, Jimmy Rue, Carm Guiltato, Buck Proty, Frank Mignoni, Harry Hinne-man, Joe Kelly, Jobby Dugan, Clem Peterpaul, Goops Mangiaracini, Teddy Sak, Jimmy Angelini, and Carm Orrino.

Joe "Chick" Cialella is having a try-out with the Seymour team of Philadelphia and if he is dissatisfied with their terms will don a St. Ann's uniform.

The team is open to all comers and if any player is interested he is requested to report to Coach Dougherty tomorrow night.

EXPECT 200 TO ATTEND "SUB" LEAGUE BANQUET

With plans completed, no tickets will be sold at the door for the first annual banquet of the Bristol Suburban Baseball League which will be held tonight at the Lido Venice Cafe, Andalusia. The only exception to this rule will be the ball players who were too late in procuring tickets from their team manager.

Joseph A. Diamanti, chairman of the banquet committee, last night announced that close to 200 is expected at the affair. Mr. Diamanti, manager of the Diamond Sporting Goods team, will act as toastmaster for the affair.

The feature plans for the night, call for the presenting of the Diamond trophy to the Rohm and Haas team, champions of the circuit, and the awarding of a trophy to the league's most valuable player. Both of these presentations will be made by Paul C. Voltz, president of the league.

The affair will begin at 6.30 o'clock.

lization, of which price control is a part, with impressive force and clarity. The utter folly, both from the standpoint of the people generally, as well as of the laborer and farmer, of eliminating wages, rents and food products from price regulation, was hammered home. That this bill, which expressly exempts wages and food products, would fail disastrously was made clear. But price control, through a flexible ceiling over all prices, which would be linked with priorities and taxes and administered without discrimination, was declared absolutely essential not only for winning the war but for winning the peace. Mr. Baruch made an unanswerable argument. It should mean the revision of the pending bill, and the prompt enactment of a sound one. That is what the national interests clearly call for; but what we will get no one can tell.

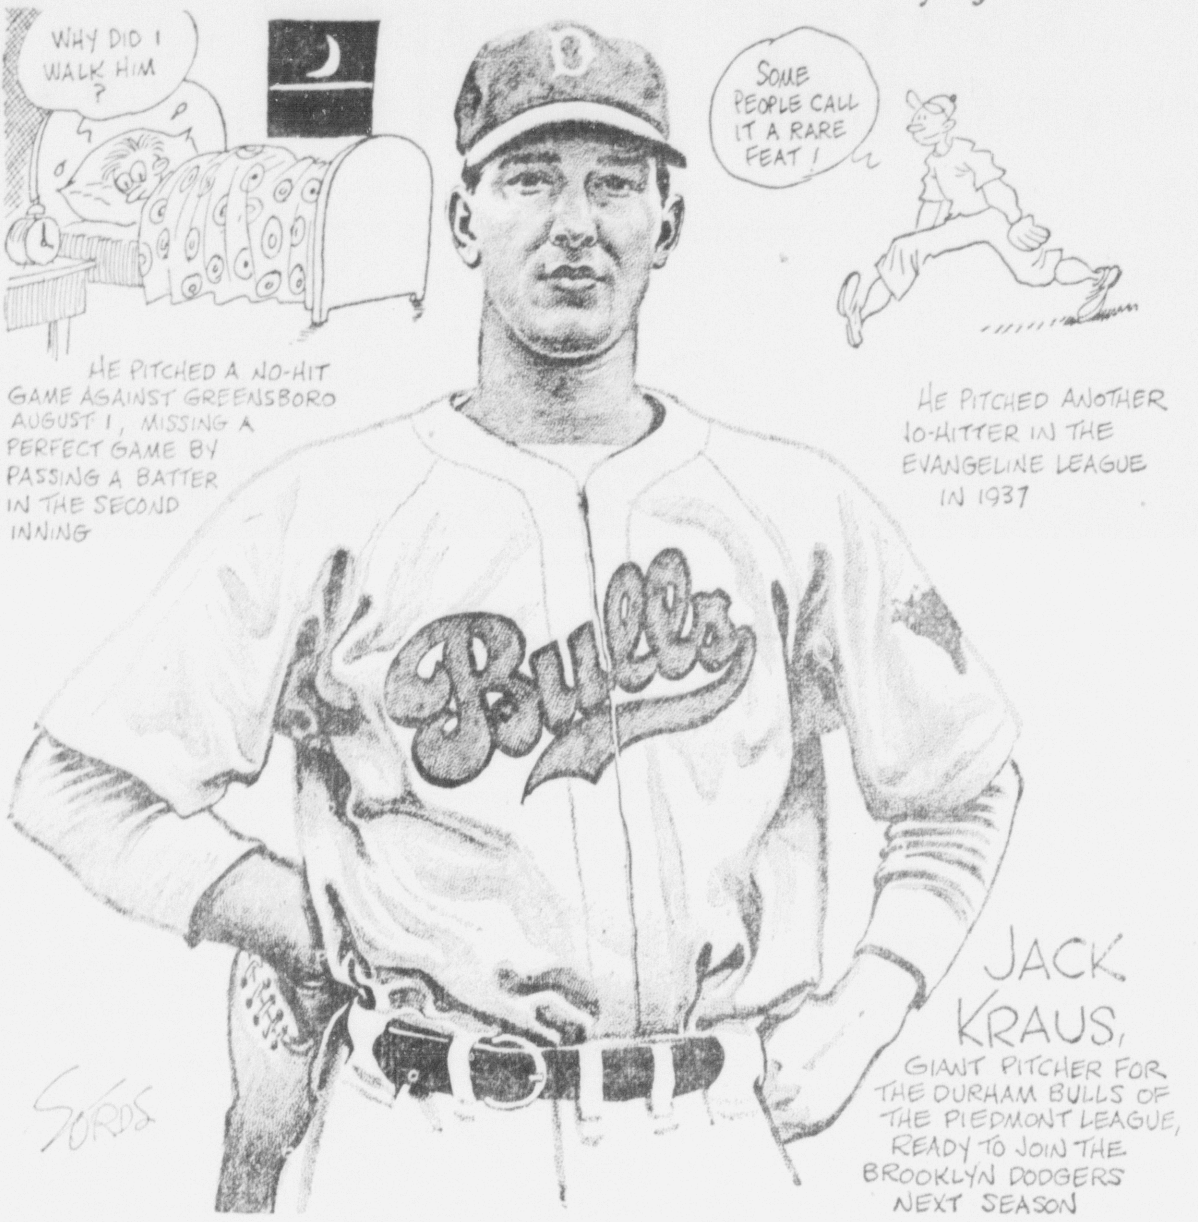

SO much for the bill—now as to the man. When it is considered that the power sought in this bill could be used either to destroy or preserve the system of private enterprise, the need for an administrator of the highest quality will not be questioned. It is necessary to endow him with absolute power, but it is also necessary that he use that power wisely and with the single purpose of preventing a price rise that would lead to inflation. To put such power in the hands of a man who conceivably would use it to promote the socialization of industry and to establish permanent governmental control over private business would be deeply abhorrent to the great bulk of the people.

IT is not here charged that Mr. Henderson is such a man, but it has been charged that among his intimate associates, assistants and friends are quite a few affiliated with the Communist party, whose primary purpose is to tear down the American system and substitute some other about which they are not clear, even in their own minds. And it is true that in the past Mr. Henderson, a vastly loquacious individual, has himself given voice to views which would lead one to believe that he did not think private business either could be saved or was worth saving.

BUT, it is said, that was some time ago. Now, Mr. Henderson is represented as thoroughly convinced of the soundness of the private-enterprise system, as anxious to preserve it and as believing that it can and should be done. Apparently, Mr. Roosevelt intends to insist upon Mr. Henderson as Price Administrator, and probably his weight is sufficient to install him despite anti-Henderson feeling. The kindly and casual indorsement of Mr. Baruch will assist in this, though that was due more to his desire not to have his criticisms seem personal and to his knowledge that the President will not yield on Mr. Henderson than to anything else. However, it would be both helpful and healthful if, in advance of the act, Mr. Henderson should make clear his attitude toward the private enterprise system. He talks a great deal on a great many subjects. Some reassuring words as to his present beliefs on this subject might obviate a bitter fight and facilitate the passage of a good bill.

IT might also make easier later co-operation with him. While he is about it Mr. Henderson might also explain why he has asked for an increased appropriation for his department for the fiscal year 1942 from $506,000 to $3,769,000; why he plans to increase his present staff of 900 to 1,395; why his general counsel, young Mr. David Ginsburg, is to increase his legal staff from 92 to 163 persons; why his own executive staff is to be increased from 71 to 133; why the price division is to be raised from 133 to 251; why the civilian allocation division is to be more than doubled; why the civilian supply division is to go from 92 to 163. Doubtless Mr. Henderson can justify these increases as well as the high salaries which prevail in his department. These facts and figures were brought out last June in a speech by Representative Ditter, of Pennsylvania, who pointed out that this expansion was occurring and these salaries being paid before the law gave Mr. Henderson anything really to do.

U. S. Built Planes Patrolling Seas

Several times, the "Catalina" crews have received S. O. S. messages in the Southern Indian Ocean, requiring them to go in search of an enemy raider or its victim.

These atolls used as bases are the only specks of land in the ocean and their smallness makes them a nightmare to the "Catalina" navigators. To make land-falls upon them calls for the highest possible skill.

As the islands possess no wireless direction-finding facilities, all navigation is done by artificial horizon, bubble-sextants.

In these regions, flying is naturally very dependent on accurate weather forecasts, but fortunately, visibility is generally very good. In misty weather or rain it is possible to pass these islands without seeing them.

One island in particular gives the "Catalina" pilots a sinking feeling in their stomachs. If they missed it there would be nothing between them and the South Pole!

Actually, they might be able to return to Ceylon by flying all through the night, but it would be touch and go if the wind was unfavorable, and they would have little or no fuel left at the end of the journey.

The supplies brought to the atolls by depot ships, plus their own local resources, are sufficient to give the crews ample provisions during their visits.

The crews live comfortably ashore in huts. They pass the waiting periods in bathing, fishing, shooting local game, and paddling round the lagoons in native canoes.

Convict Driver On Manslaughter Charge

President Judge Hiram H. Keller presided at the three-day trial in which Sloyer, a Bethlehem Steel worker, was charged with statutory rape.

Beginning at 11 o'clock on Friday morning, the jury deliberated more than four and one-half hours, returning a verdict of not guilty. Mrs. Car-etta Sloyer, wife of the defendant, and a sister of the prosecutrix, Mrs. Irma Schuman, of Richlandtown, wept for joy following the acquittal.

Mrs. Schuman, mother of the 11-year-old daughter, who was involved in the trial, left the court room with her eyes filled with tears and her daughter tugging at her arm.

Deliberating more than an hour, a jury on Friday afternoon convicted Wallace Wyche, Jr., 23, 1738 North Tenth street, Phila., of a charge of involuntary manslaughter before Judge Calvin S. Boyer.

Judge Boyer, who sentenced the Negro motorist to pay the costs of prosecution and to serve not less than one year nor more than three in the County Prison, said to the driver of the death car: "This was a serious offense; you killed a human being. The Court agrees with the jury's verdict and there is no doubt in the mind of the Court that you were driving recklessly because you had been drinking. Your's isn't the first case of this kind in the Bucks county courts. We quite often have cases about people who live in Philadelphia and go to Trenton, N. J., to drink and then have an accident coming home through Bucks county."

The colored defendant's car crashed into a truck, overturning it on the Lincoln Highway, about 200 yards east of the Bucks County-City Line on April 27.

The truck was damaged more than $2,000, and Louise Parker, one of five passengers in the defendant's car, died in a Philadelphia hospital two days after the accident.

Wyche, according to a record, served six months for larceny of a car October 22, 1936, and December 7, 1936, was charged with operating a car without the owner's consent.

The defendant has been in prison here since April 29.

His defense was that he stopped his car before he got to a "stop" sign and that he didn't see any traffic, became confused and made a left-hand turn when he caught sight of the truck too late.

None of the three passengers, who were with him in the car at the time of the truck-car crash, appeared in court in his behalf.

A Trevoze youth, James Delguercio, tourist cabin operator, who was an eye witness to the collision about 1 o'clock in the morning, testified the defendant's car approached the four-lane highway about 50 miles an hour never heeding two "Stop" signs before crossing.

Rev. W. W. Williams Is Called To Marcus Hook

Although no definite decision has been reached regarding the successor of the Rev. Mr. Williams, here, it is stated that possibly the Rev. Arthur F. Gibson, rector of Christ Church, Ed-dington, may likewise assume duties at the Church of the Redeemer.

The Rev. Williams will assume his new duties on October 1st, at which time he and Mrs. Williams will take up residence in the rectory of St. Martin's, an old established church of Delaware County.

Just prior to coming to Andalusia, the Rev. Mr. Williams served a group of missions for the Diocese of New Jersey, they being located at Mullica Hill, Paulsboro and Clarksboro. Prior to that he had organized the Church of the Epiphany, Atlantic City, N. J. During his years in the Christian ministry, he has been located in various States, for a time serving at St. Luke's Church, Scranton; Key West and St. Petersburg churches in Florida, and other points.

after the crash. King stated he was asleep when the crash occurred, and upon waking was ordered by Miller to run.

In another accident on Sunday morning at three o'clock, Elwood Doderer, Churchville, was treated at Harriman Hospital for lacerations of the head and right leg. His machine crashed into a tree on Newport Road, to the west of Bristol. The car was considerably damaged. Pennsylvania Motor Police investigated. Doderer was removed to the hospital by a passing motorist.

Nazis Make Claims of New Victories Against Soviets

Before retreating from Kiev, it was asserted, the Soviets removed all food stocks, set fire to water and electricity works, blew up railway lines and bridges and rendered the population "unable to obtain vital supplies."

Many thousands of persons were said to be facing the dangers of starvation and epidemics.

Meanwhile the Luftwaffe was credited with sinking a Soviet destroyer, a smaller warship and a 2,000-ton transport vessel in the Dnieper River estuary.

In a raid on the Kronstadt naval base near Leningrad, it was stated, German bombers "silenced several batteries and scattered Red troop concentrations." They also were declared to have destroyed "numerous" Russian planes parked on a Kronstadt air-drome.

Nothing makes a selective service man in camp happier than a letter from home or a home-town newspaper in the daily mail, army officials said recently after an extensive survey.

Next in order, the selective service youth likes sweets such as candy, cookies and chocolates—and chewing gum!

Officers say that on the march the gum helps keep the boys from drinking too much water and from dipping into their lunch ration.

Other offerings which bring a smile of pleasure to the enrollee include a general repertoire of utilities among which are books of stamps, flashlights, a towel now and then, toilet articles, and reading materials.

Officers say that if relatives want to be sure their addressee gets what's mailed to him, they should address the letter or package in this way: Name first, his company or battery second, his regiment third, and, lastly the name of the post office.
